

Settlement for actions of former employees at John Ware School between 1988 and 2004

November 26, 2025 - A settlement has been reached in a class action lawsuit related to two former Calgary Board of Education (CBE) employees at John Ware School between 1988 and 2004.

The CBE is sorry for the harm experienced by the class members and the impact of that harm on them. The CBE commends the strength and courage of the class members who came forward to share their experiences and to participate in the court process. Many of the class members intend to pursue further advocacy to prevent others from experiencing similar harm.

Under the settlement agreement, which is still subject to court approval, the CBE and its insurers will pay $15,770,000.00 all-inclusive to the class members.

In addition, the settlement includes an opportunity for class representatives to collaborate with the CBE regarding existing policies and training. Class representatives appreciate the CBE's openness to meaningful consultation.

The CBE remains committed to practices and policies that enable students to learn in safe, caring, and supportive environments.

We look forward to the successful conclusion of the court action.
