Western Canada High School decorates trees for families in need

CALGARY — The Western Canada High School Husky Energy Leadership Committee has organized the second annual tree decorating event for families in need.

Groups of 10 interested students and staff have joined together to “buy” the privilege of decorating a tree for $100. Each team is required to provide all the supplies to decorate the seven-foot pre-lit trees donated by the McDonough family. With some friendly competition, the trees are already starting to look spectacular.

During the lunch period on Dec. 12 the voting will be open. People vote with money, not ballots.

The next day, the trees will be carefully wrapped and delivered to families at the Brenda Stafford Centre. The money from the entry fee and voting will be used to support the families at the Centre in the form of a grocery cards and gifts for the children.

These activities are part of the Giving Tree initiative, organized by the Western Canada High School Husky Energy Leadership Committee. This student leadership group is focused on connecting with and supporting the community through a variety of fundraising initiatives.

Media are invited to the noon-hour tree judging.
